BASKETBALL PAYS THE WAY

THIS YEAR THE IOWA HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC Association has conducted the series of Sectional, District, and State Basketball Tournaments in which 891 teams participated. During the three weeks of tournament activity, 109 different schools and communities were hosts to tournaments, 148 basketballs were used, and 210 different officials were employed. After the final tournament has been completed, the total income from all tournaments will be computed so that the Board of Control of the I. H. S. A. A. can determine the amount of reimbursement to be made to all participating schools for game expense allowance, based upon the number of tournament games played, in addition to mileage allowance for each trip. Host schools will also be reimbursed twenty per cent of the gross receipts of their respective tournaments. In the 1956 series of tournaments, participating teams and host schools were paid over $85,500. Some of the income from these tournaments will be held in reserve to assist with other athletic activities.

★ The I. H. S. A. A. maintains the most extensive high school baseball program in the nation. Over 700 teams will participate in the spring series of tournaments starting in May, 200 teams in the summer tournaments in July, and 450 teams in the fall tournaments in September. The I. H. S. A. A. will supply over 240 dozens of baseballs in addition to all trophies, and will employ over 260 different baseball umpires. Last year, the I. H. S. A. A. spent over $48,750 on baseball, which was $21,400 more than was received from these activities.

★ The I. H. S. A. A. spent over $28,000 on track activities last year, which was $23,795 more than was actually received. Track activities include the spring indoor meets for four classes of schools, the spring outdoor meets for four classes involving eight district meets followed by the state final meets, the fall one-mile team race, and the fall cross-country run for all classes. The I. H. S. A. A. makes a transportation expense allowance to all schools for these meets, and provides trophies for the winner and runner-up schools for all meets in each class besides trophies for all relay races, and individual medals for the first three winners in all other events.

★ Other activities sponsored by the I. H. S. A. A. are wrestling, golf, swimming, and tennis as well as coaching schools and rules clinics for football, basketball, baseball, and track. Last year these activities cost over $15,500, which was $5,460 more than was actually received. The I. H. S. A. A. pays one dollar of the insurance premium for those junior and senior high school boys who subscribe to athletic insurance coverages, and this amounts to approximately $30,000 annually. Thus, basketball

"pays the way" in providing our Iowa schools with a complete and adaptable athletic program.

★ A regional supervisor of the Department of Public Instruction has been an ex-officio member of the Board of Control for over ten years, and he attends all meetings of the Board. Records of all receipts and disbursements are recorded on International Business Machine card punch machines, and your admission ticket to this state tournament is only one of the many examples in which these machines expedite bookkeeping. These machines provide a complete bookkeeping system and each member of the Board of Control as well as the State Superintendent of Public Instruction each month receives a complete record of all financial transactions, also a copy of the certified public accountant's annual audit report.

★ Your interest and loyal support have made this extensive program a reality. It is the desire of the Board of Control that the Association render an optimum of service to its member schools. School administrators have long recognized that a well organized and properly conducted interscholastic athletic program makes a definite and essential contribution to the over-all educational program of a school.

The Iowa High School Basketball Tournaments in 1957

EIGHT HUNDRED NINETY-ONE Iowa high school basketball teams participated in this year's state series of basketball tournaments. Five hundred seventy-two Class B teams (teams representing schools with a five-year average daily attendance of fewer than 101) participated in sixty-four sectional tournaments starting the week of February 25, 1957. The sixty-four Class B winners of the sectional tournaments participated during the week of March 11, 1957, in eight district basketball tournaments. There were eight Class B teams assigned to each district tournament, and the winners had to play three games to qualify for the state tournament.

Three hundred nineteen Class A teams (teams representing schools with a five-year average daily attendance of 101 or more) also participated in sixty-four sectional tournaments during the week of February 25, 1957. The sixty-four tournament winners in Class A were then assigned to eight district Class A tournaments which were played during the week of March 11, 1957. Eight Class A teams were assigned to each of these eight district tournaments, and thus it was necessary for each district tournament winner to play three games to qualify for the state tournament. All district tournament winners were assigned to their first round state tournament games at sites throughout Iowa on March 18th, and the winners in both classes then advanced to the semi-final round in Des Moines on March 22, 1957. Those teams losing their first round games are guests at all games played in Des Moines on March 22, 23, 1957, all of their expenses being paid by the I. H. S. A. A.

In the sixty-four Class B sectional tournaments, the number of Class B teams participating in each tournament varied from eight to ten teams. For those teams who won their sectional tournament and advanced to the district tournament, it was necessary for such teams to play at least three games in their sectional tournament, and in the event that such team was paired to play one of the odd games where more than eight Class B teams had entered, then such team would have played four games to win its sectional tournament. In the Class A sectional tournaments, one site had four teams assigned, whereas the other sixty-three sites had five teams each, resulting for each tournament winner to have played at least two games, and possibly three games.

There were no sub-state tournaments in 1957, thus requiring only two weeks of tournament activity to determine the state tournament qualifiers.

These contests have increased school and community rivalries and quickened loyalties of students and patrons. For the most part, both the rivalry and the rekindled loyalty have been wholesome and desirable.

Basketball is a provoker of stirring emotions. Its action is rapid. Its tense moments are many. A short lifetime of elations and depressions is experienced in a long hour. Life will be sweeter—and longer if the following truisms are remembered in the excitement of a tense game and especially in the strain of tournament play:

- (1) Basketball is a game—not a battle or a fight.
- (2) It is played for fun and for the enjoyment it provides to player and spectator.
- (3) It is a friendly athletic contest—not a matter of life or death for player, coach, school, official, fan, state, or nation.
- (4) It is a game in which the winners deserve congratulations and the near-winners, respect.

History in the Making for 46 Years of State High School Basketball Meets

THE State High School Athletic Board selected the four teams which in their opinion, "have shown the best form during the season," to play in the first state high school basketball tournament in 1912.

In 1913 the Board selected eight teams to play in the state tournament. The system of sectional tournaments was introduced in 1914. Both winner and runner-up gained entry to the state meet from preliminary affairs held at Des Moines, Ames, Grinnell, and Cedar Falls. A total of only thirty-nine high school teams played in the preliminary rounds.

In 1915 sixty-eight high school teams entered the sectional tournaments, 112 entered in 1916, and 144 high school teams entered sectional meets in 1917. Sectional meets were continued in 1918 but the only state event in 1919 was an eight-team invitational meet at Ames. Simpson, Iowa State Teachers, and Cornell sponsored invitational tournaments for high school teams in their area in 1919.

In 1920, 1921, and 1922 both Ames and Iowa City conducted invitational high school meets. Out of the chaos of the several invitational tournaments there developed in 1923 a single state high school basketball championship series with four district winners meeting in a round robin final at Boone.

Round robin tournaments with four teams competing were held in 1923, 1924, 1925, and 1926. Osage won from Council Bluffs, 21 to 14; Oskaloosa, 28 to 18; and Spirit Lake, 28 to 16, to win the championship in 1923. . . . Sioux City Central won the 1924 state championship in a play-off with Council Bluffs after the two teams were tied at the end of the round robin. . . . Waterloo, West, won all of its games in the 1925 tournament, defeating Spirit Lake, 17 to 15; Oskaloosa, 19 to 16; and Osceola, 14 to 6. . . . Class B schools competed in their own state meet in 1925 and again in 1926.

From 1927 through 1955, one state basketball champion was determined from a field representing all classes of schools. For 1956, and again this year, state champions will be determined in both Class A and Class B. The Class B schools were comprised of those with a five-year average daily attendance of fewer than 101, whereas all schools with a five-year average daily attendance of 101 or more were classified as Class A schools.

ATHLETICS and the Atomic Age

speaking terms with this eon-old secret. No group of washed-out sedentarians could have done it.

NATURE'S LAWS do not change. Man's ability to understand them and adapt himself is the stuff on which progress is based. That muscles develop through use and co-ordination comes from practice, is as true today as it was when an atom-busting cataclysm projected the swirls which came together in human form. Desirable human relationships spring from matching strength, speed, and wit with other individuals and with other forces. The individual grows through striving mightily in a common cause under stress of competition. To date, no one has been able to find a suitable substitute for this stimulus.

IT TAKES YEARS to build body strength and co-ordination, and generations to build a nation. The fused atoms from the H-bomb can destroy both in a split second. This could lead to a fatalistic philosophy of "What's the use?" But it took a virile, non-fatalistic nation to develop the know-how and the X-billion cash to get on

THE SCHOOLS are the channel through which the flood of living energy flows. As the units tumble through, they are bombarded with the neutronic cosmic forces which cause latent talent and pent up energy to explode or fuse into the skills and abilities which give purpose and importance to the process of living. One important source of this atomic phenomenon is the activity centered around training of the human physical mechanism. Atomic power is a physical thing just as muscular power and endurance are physical. Mental processes merely unlock the shackles. To neglect the importance of the physical is to fail to appreciate basic natural law. Strength, health, endurance, and co-ordination are basic attributes worth striving for. They seldom reach maximum development without direction. That direction is one essential job of the school.

IT TAKES COURAGE and ingenuity to gear the school physical fitness activity to enable the human mechanism to keep pace with the needs of the new era in which supersonic speed is a fait accompli and the terrible and wonderful power in the atom is being unlocked.

THE NATION'S WELFARE depends on the ability of the schools to reach every student through this important activity. They must not fail.

Spectator Sports: The Cement of Democracy

COMMON INTERESTS, common loyalties, common enthusiasms—these are the great integrating factors in any culture. In America, sports have provided this common denominator in as great a degree as any other single factor. Our team rosters sometimes resemble the third-class passenger lists of the ocean liners putting into New York in the early 1900's.

THROUGHOUT AMERICA, the many groups with their various racial backgrounds and cultural heritages are often conscious of their differences from one another and eager to find a common meeting ground. When these groups unite in an interest in an athlete or a team, they feel a sense of homogeneity which they can acquire in no other way.

THE DEMOCRATIZING INFLUENCE of spectator sports in American culture can scarcely be overestimated. In furnishing a common cultural interest, fostering understanding across class lines, and increasing the intimacy of association with different classes, spectator sports contribute to those integrating forces which are vital and indispensable in the preservation of our democratic way of life. The lowliest individual in the economic or social scale may participate with equal benefit and pleasure in the spectator sports. The bleachers are equally cordial to coal miners, politicians, and bank presidents.

The Iowa High School ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE purpose of the Iowa High School Athletic Association is to promote, develop, direct, protect, and regulate amateur interscholastic athletic relationship between member schools and to stimulate fair play, friendly rivalry, and good sportsmanship among contestants, schools, and communities throughout the state.

Membership in the organization is entirely voluntary and is open to all public high schools in the state. Any other schools of secondary rank that are approved by the Iowa Board on Secondary School Relationships may apply to the Board of Control for admission, and upon payment of dues and the fulfillment of the requirements designated by the Board of Control, may be admitted to membership. Membership dues in the Association are $2.00 a year. On March 1, 1957, there were 905 Iowa high school members of the Association.

The superintendent or his designated high school principal is the official representative of his school in all matters pertaining to the relationship of that school to the Association.

The direct governing power of the Association is vested in a Board of Control composed of five school administrators and an ex-officio member representing the State Department of Public Instruction. The five school administrators are elected at large by all of the member schools of the Association, one member being elected each year, and serving a five-year term. The members are eligible to succeed themselves but once.

The Board of Control employs an Executive Secretary subject to the approval of a majority vote of the Representative Council. The Board of Control has general supervision over all athletic contests of schools of the Association. It interprets the rules of the Association. It provides suitable awards for the winners of the contests conducted by the Association; and it decides all protests and fixes the penalty unless otherwise provided in the rules.

The policy body of the Iowa High School Athletic Association is composed of a Representative council of twenty-five members, five elected from each of the five districts. There are three classes of high schools in each district. Classes B and A are entitled to two representatives each and Class AA one representative. These three classes of high schools are as follows: Class B schools have a five-year average daily attendance of between one and 101; Class A schools have a five-year average daily attendance of between 101 and 401; Class AA schools have a five-year average daily attendance of over 400.

The Representative Council meets semi-annually and its purpose is to formulate the aims and policies of the Association for the ensuing year and to have the power to initiate amendments and new rules for the Secretary to submit to the electorate.

The following is a list of the Representative Council members in the Iowa High School Athletic Association:

The Iowa High School INSURANCE COMPANY

THE Iowa High School Insurance Company is a regularly qualified insurance company doing business under the insurance laws of the State of Iowa and insuring high school athletes, both boys and girls, against any injury which they may receive in any activity at their high school and/or any injury resulting from transportation to and from a regularly supervised activity or contest.

The Company was organized in 1939. Since that time individual insurance certificates have been issued to 811,056 pupils and high school athletes. The Company has paid over 75,000 claims to date. The Company has paid over one million dollars ($1,260,130) in claims as of January 1, 1957. There is no athletic injury which is not covered under the terms of the policy, although the policy does not guarantee 100% payment of all doctor bills incurred. It is a limited policy for which payment is made according to a schedule of indemnities which includes hospitalization and death benefits.

The cost of the insurance has been reduced to a minimum. High school athletes can be insured for the period beginning August 24th of each year extending to June 15th for all activities except football, for $2.25. Those athletes from schools engaging in football may have the benefit of the coverage for this sport and all other activities for the year upon payment of the premium of $5.50.

The policies issued to the athletes insures them not only in the event of athletic injuries, but gives them full and comprehensive coverage for any injury that they receive while participating in any supervised school activity and includes also injuries which they may receive going from their home to school and returning.

The Company offered Pupil Insurance for the first time in 1949. During this current school year, pupils not participating in athletics could secure coverage for the entire school year for as little as seventy-five cents, which would protect them against injuries sustained in all regular classroom and school activities except interscholastic athletics. The pupil policy also protects the pupil while going to and from school.

For an annual premium of $1.00, a policy paying fifty per cent greater indemnities is available, whereas a third policy paying 100% greater indemnities over the seventy-five-cent policy is available for $1.25. All Pupil Insurance Policies include the Insurance Coverage Transfer clause, which provides that if at any time a pupil decides to participate in interscholastic athletics, he is automatically protected against injuries sustained in such activity for a definite period of time.

Likewise, the Company offers Automatic Insurance Extension to all of the insureds, which provides for thirty days of coverage from the opening of school next fall. Thus, in the light of these two features, a junior high school student who has a Pupil Insurance Policy this year, may report for high school football practice next fall, and be protected for at least thirty days by his present policy. These Extension and Transfer features make it desirable to insure both pupils and athletes with the Iowa High School Insurance Company.

The governing board of the Company is composed of the officers and directors whose names appear below. They are elected at the annual policy-holders' meeting held the third Saturday in January of each year.
